

Volunteer Role Profile

Volunteer Role	Group Webmaster
Volunteer Manager	Group Chair
Where you will be based	Home

Why we want you

A local website makes sure that the work and activities of the local group are publicised. Keeping local communities, and members, up to date with the issues facing walkers locally as well as the activities they can take part in is a valuable way to help raise the profile of the Ramblers and walking.

What you will be doing

- Designing and building an attractive website to publicise the activities of the Group
- Keeping the website current and up to date, in content and structure
- Working with fellow volunteers, collect relevant stories, information and messages to publish on the website
- Making sure that the details of volunteers are only published if they've given formal permission

The skills you need

- Excellent written communication
- Good knowledge of basic website management
- Design/creative flair, to make the website interesting and attractive

What's in it for you

- A role that fits around your life
